Election 2020 coverage begins to ramp up this month, although some of the details are subject to change. As of the time I am writing this article, both major party conventions are still scheduled to occur this month. As we have all seen this year, any live event may be subject to change in shape and form. The typical broadcast design for these conventions includes coverage across four days (Monday to Thursday) three hours each night. You will see that is still the plan as we printed this guide. However, guidance from my colleagues at NPR and PBS NewsHour suggest these events continue to evolve and the actual broadcast schedule surrounding these events may be altered by the time we get to these dates.

Our summer concert series continues Thursday nights (and select Fridays) features Paul Simon, The Doobie Brothers, Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers, Prince, Neil Diamond, Mumford & Sons, Avett Brothers and Sam Smith. The idea to gather up these concert specials was born out of the fact that we cannot all gather to watch our favorite artists to perform in person. We hope you enjoy the music this summer.

Early next month more daytime to evening changes are coming. An hour of PBS KIDS programming will be moving from 7:00pm to noon. In all, we will continue to broadcast seven hours of PBS KIDS programming every weekday. This change will unify children’s programming in one singular block of programming and then when we pivot to general audience programming at 1pm, we’ll stay with general audience. This will mean cooking and how-to programs in the middle of the day will shift to 1pm from noon. The goal is to provide a seamless schedule of programming for you to enjoy.

Starting next month, we welcome a new variety show to our Saturday night schedule that I’m sure will become a favorite of yours. The Carol Burnett Show will run Saturday nights at 7pm. This initial broadcast of episodes on WITF features personally chosen episodes from Carol as they originally appeared from the show’s run 1967 to 1978. Relive the laughs through August 2021, so you have plenty of time to enjoy the music and memories of this series for months ahead. To make room for Carol Burnett, Lawrence Welk will move up to 6pm Saturday.

Thanks for watching WITF. I truly enjoy our time together watching WITF. Thank you for your on-going support and stay tuned!

Fred Vigeant, Director of Programming for WITF TV and WITF 89.5 & 93.3
