

Dr. Eugene Curley
Infectious Disease Physician at WellSpan Health

Dr. Eugene Curley is an infectious disease physician for WellSpan Health. His team at WellSpan began having meetings to prepare for COVID-19 in January of 2020, prior to any cases in the United States. He continues to see his patients on a daily basis at WellSpan York Hospital. Dr. Curley is excited for the prospects of hope that the vaccine is bringing to our region, but he knows that it is just the first step to ending this pandemic. "It won't be our only tool. We'll still need to wear masks, social distance and practice good hygiene. Still, this vaccine represents a shot of hope." Dr. Curley and his family live in York