

Brice Williams

Medical Case Manager, PLWHA

Hailing from Chambersburg PA, Brice Williams was the recipient of the LGBT Center of Central PA's 2020 FAB Rising Star Award. He attended Elizabethtown College and graduated with a Bachelor's of Social Work degree. Brice also went on to graduate from Shippensburg University one year later, where he obtained a Master's of Social Work degree. Brice is proudly a plus-size, Black, Genderqueer Social Worker who, during his free time, hits the stage under the stage name, Anastasia Diamond.

Since the start of the pandemic, Brice has stayed connected to drag and the community by serving as a rotating co-host on the informative and hilariously entertaining Queer Vodcast, Inside the Drag Closet. While in school, Brice spent time doing the following; writing research papers on, advocating to House Representatives for, and developing programs about the Queer Community. Specifically, Brice was the recipient of the Best BSW Poster Award on his research of the Transgender community of India, known as Hijra and he developed an educational Queer newsletter for Washington County Department of Social Services called, "OUTreach." Brice has served in the role of an HIV Community Educator and is a certified rapid HIV tester.

However, most recently, Brice works as a Certified Medical Case Manager for People Living with HIV/AIDS (PLWHA). He has also developed a mutual aid support group for PLWHA and serves as the support group's lead facilitator. Brice is currently a Board Member of Franklin County Coalition for Progress, a Board Member of CASD Foundations, serves on the Pride Franklin County Committee, and chairs the CASD Foundations' Diversity and Inclusion Committee.
