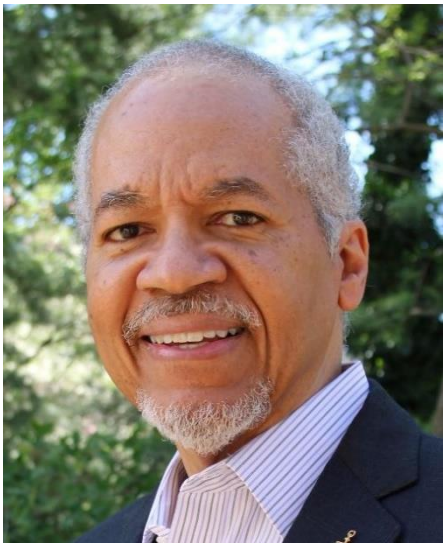
Dean A. Henry
Owner, Family Pearl LLC
www.familypearl.com



Dean Henry is a professional genealogist specializing in African American genealogy research, and technology used to enable the capture of genealogical research.

He has presented in a number of venues, including at the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, at the 2018 Afro American Historical and Genealogical Society (AAHGS) national conference, and the Science and Art Club of Germantown. His media appearances include 6 ABC TV, WURD Radio, and Philly Cam TV.

Dean's genealogical organization memberships include the Association of Professional Genealogists, the African American Genealogy Group, the Family Quest Society chapter of AAHGS. He is a member of several lineage-based organizations, including the Sons of the American Revolution, the Sons & Daughters of the United States Middle Passage, and the Society of First African Families of English America.

He received a BS in Economics from the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, and an MBA from La Salle University. Dean serves on the adjunct faculty of La Salle University's School of Arts & Sciences, where he teaches Information Security.